

The resource title will go here

A credit report tells lenders:

1. The loans or credit cards you have and how much you still owe.
2. How consistent you are with your payments.
3. Past bankruptcies or tax liens.
4. Credit scores range from 300-850. The higher the number, the better your score.

Your credit report helps lenders (like banks and credit card companies) determine how likely you are to pay your monthly payments on time.

We believe that ALL people deserve a chance to learn and succeed.

Ascendant Community Education ("ACE") partners with banks and other financial services companies to provide free financial literacy education to low to moderate income households.

AscendantEducation.org

ASCENDANT
COMMUNITY EDUCATION

Learning Together to Make Life Better